Dade Man Arrested For Sending Dulles Post Card Threats

MIAMI, Aug. 5 (AP)—Postal inspectors today arrested Joseph Marchione, 33, on a charge of writing threatening post cards to Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Inspectors said Marchione sent the cards over a period of three years despite warnings they were illegal.

Marchione told U.S. Commissioner Roger E. Davis he never would have written the cards if he hadn't been "mistreated."

He said a CIA agent wrote a letter to him years ago and he gave it to the FBI for action against the sender. Instead, the FBI gave it to the CIA, which kept it, he added.

The post cards demanded Dulles return the letter or "face justice," postal inspectors said.

Marchione was ordered held under $1,000 bond.
